

SHOT FATAL

Leslie Hays Has a Relapse and Death Ensues.

Leslie Hays, who accidentally shot himself in the head Feb. 29, died Saturday afternoon. For several days after the shooting the boy held tenaciously on to life and even showed such marked improvement that it began to be hoped he would recover. He was playing with a pistol when his mother called him to bring her some wood. Slipping the pistol into the breast pocket of his coat, he stooped over to pick up the wood. The pistol fell out of his pocket and was discharged, the bullet entering the boy's head and lodging in the brain.

He was a son of Jas. E. Hays, who lives near the Western Asylum.

The burial took place Sunday afternoon in Riverside Cemetery.

PERMANENT RECORD

To Be Kept of The Trial Of At Madisonville Is Partly Destroyed By Fire.

A complete stenographic report of the evidence in the case of Dr. David Amoss, who was tried here in March 1911, on the charge of taking part in the night rider raid on Hopkinsville, has been filed with the circuit court clerk. This is in pursuance of an order of Judge Hanbery at the beginning of the trial last year that the report of the testimony should be kept in the archives as a permanent record of this noted case.

The trial of Dr. Amoss was perhaps the most important trial ever held in the Christian county courthouse. The jury took the case late in the afternoon the tenth day of the trial and returned a verdict of not guilty about 8 o'clock that night. There were two other indictments against Dr. Amoss and three indictments each against five other persons, and all of these were subsequently dismissed without trial, thus ending the prosecution of persons charged with implication in the night rider conspiracy except in the federal courts where litigation for damages is still going on.

OUR SIAMESE LETTER

soon "break" the Board, so don't tell them to send my box out right away. Things are safer in New York than in Bangkok, anyway, and I had rather they would wait there. I have explained to you before that boats can go up and down river, only at a certain time of the year, so I will not repeat that. I am sorry about the "hobble skirts", as I am afraid they will not do for tennis. I don't care so much about the looks, but I won't have time to pull my skirt up every time I have to run after a ball.

LUCY STARLING.

Accepted as True

The Plot Thickens.

Mexico City, March 11.—At a secret meeting of foreign diplomats held Friday night it was decided to call on their respective governments to send corps of marines to protect each foreign legation in the City of Mexico. If this request is granted by the different governments it will bring about 1,500 armed foreign soldiers into the heart of the city. It is understood that the German minister was the first to ask for marines.

Girl Killed.

Etampes, France, March 10.—Scappina Bernard, a 19-year old aviator, was killed here to-day while undergoing examination for a pilot's license. She had successfully passed most of the tests when in attempting a sharp turn to the right the machine was caught by an eddy and capsized. It fell 200 feet and the woman was crushed beneath the motor.

Craig's Crazes.

Gordon Craig, who interlards his sapient utterances with more than the average man's nonsensical lapses, perpetrates this:

"I take an entirely common sense view of the man and his motives. He simply succeeded in performing in two months a task that has been tried in every court in Europe for centuries. He set out to cleanse social and official life of its moral grime and its degeneracy. He set about his task with direct purpose, and with the full enthusiasm of a young, virile, and cruelly wronged man. His ideas were logical, and he reasoned and thought out every movement and act during that brief time of storm and stress that ended in tragedy. That is my idea of Hamlet."

Apologies of which the Nation tartly remarks:

"If that really is Mr. Craig's notion of Hamlet, there does not seem to be much reason why he should be encouraged to promulgate it. What fatality is it that condemns so many enthusiastic stage reformers to be freakish?"

"Oh! You Kid."

When the average boy insists on a spotless collar every day one may be sure that he is leaving his childhood behind and that the responsibilities of life have begun.

SHOULD BE ACCOMMODATING

What Are Neighbors for If They Cannot Help Each Other Out Occasionally?

Uncle Jabez and Aunt Becky Pilcher, an easy-going old couple, lived next door to Mrs. Perkins, a worthy soul, although a trifle lax in small matters. Borrowing from each other was a daily custom of the two women, all borrowed articles being carefully returned—if convenience permitted.

One evening Uncle Jabez asked for his daily paper, the Spicerville Herald, which, although a morning paper, it was his habit to postpone reading until the day's chores were done and he could settle down to his after-dinner leisure.

"Hem! Lemme see," pondered Aunt Becky, "what did become of that paper? Oh, yes, I recollect. I lent it to Susan Perkins this afternoon. I'll run and get it."

She returned soon, bearing a paper—not, however, the Herald—and a message from Mrs. Perkins. "Susan says, would you just as lives have yesterday evening's Times? Here 'tis. She says it's got nearly the same readin' in as the Herald, but it's narrower and don't fit her but 'ry shelf half as good, and if you'd just as lives—"

Uncle Jabez looked a little doubtfully at the Times. "Couldn't I read the Herald first," he suggested mildly, "an' let her put it on her shelf afterwards, s'pose?"

Aunt Becky looked uncomfortable. "Well—I s'pose you could," she hesitated, "only Susan got it on the shelf now, with things settin' on it, and it'd be some trouble to take 'em off. Besides, she's scalloped it pretty deep, and the scallops cut into some of the readin' a good deal—"

"Oh, well," concluded Uncle Jabez, resignedly, "nev' mind, then; gimme the Times. I reckon neighbors ought to 'commode one another when they kin."—Youth's Companion.

UNLIKE PEABY.

Norwegian Discoverer Generously Expresses the Hope That His Competitor Has Won Goal.

Hobart, Tasmania, March 11.—Captain Roald Amundsen, the discoverer of the south pole, said that he thought it quite possible that Captain Robert F. Scott, the British explorer, had also attained the pole. He hoped so, at least. His own base, he said, was 500 miles from that of the British party and his winter camp was nearer the pole than Scott's. He had no idea at the time that Captain Scott had started for the pole.

Captain Amundsen has received thousands of congratulatory messages. He announces that he will remain here until the Fram sails. He will then begin a two months' lecture tour in Australia and will join the Fram at Buenos Ayres.

American Girl Caught.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—"I have not yet definitely decided whether I shall ask the federal government to take steps for my daughter's release," said P. R. Wright, father of Alice Morgan Wright, who is serving a two months' term in Holloway prison, England, as a result of the suffragette window-smashing expedition in London last week. Mr. Wright, who, with his wife, was in the south when news of their daughter's arrest reached them, arrived here tonight.

"I think Alice is all right where she is now," said Mr. Wright. "She has not committed any crime. The magistrate who sentenced her said that. She was simply caught in bad company. She was standing on the sidewalk when a window was broken, was rounded up with the crowd and sentenced along with the others."

Unreasonable.

"Come along to bed, Ethel. I'm sure you wouldn't like to keep the Lord up all night, just to listen to you."

Fond Thoughts.
